SCHOOL GIRL QUITS TENNIS

Leaves the Court to Be Married.

Romance of Year's Standing Culminates in a Wedding.

Student at Rowland Hall Leaves School to Wed Man of Her Choice.

A romance of a year's standing culmin sted yesterday afternoon in the marriage of Clyde Rummell, a prominent Boise, Ida., man, and Miss Sadle Henderson. Rowland hall student from Elko, Nev despite frantic efforts on the part of the faculty of that school to head off the young couple before the ceremony was performed

Eloped From Tennis Court.

Miss Henderson was in the tennis court shortly before 5 o'clock, when Rummel drove up in a closed carriage and sigraied to Miss Henderson. She nurried to the vehicle and the young couple drove rapidly away to the County Clerk's office, where a marriage license was issued with dispatch. From the office the lovers hurried to the residence of the Rev. Benjamin Young, paster of the First Methodist church, where the ceremony was performed.

Effort to Stop Marriage.

Another young woman student at Row-land hall, who saw the carriage drive away with Miss Henderson, hastily in-fermed Miss Colburn, the principal, who at once telephoned to the Clerk's office but it was too late, the license had beer issued and the young people had gone.

Girl's Parents Advised.

Miss Colburn says that she then tele-graphed to Miss Henderson's father, a banker at Elko, who wired in return: "Stop the marriage, if possible. It will kill her mother."

Girl a Good Student.

In a statement made to The Tribune, Miss Colburn, principal of the school, said that she believed the girl had acted foolshiy and upon the impulse of the moment, adding that Miss Henderson was a fine student, a regular attendant at St. Mark's Sunday-school and always obedient.

Search for Couple.

At a late hour last night Miss Colburn received a second telegram from C. L. Henderson, father of the bride, which read: "Return Sadle to Rowland Hall tonight at any cost."

Miss Colburn and Dean Eddle, rector of St. Mark's church and an old friend of Mr. Henderson, thereupon instituted a search for the young couple and finally discovered that they were registered at the Chadbourne, but had gone out to spend the evening with friends and had not returned.

Third Message From Father.

While they were debating what they could do to find the young wife, a third telegram arrived from Mr. Henderson. This message read. "Have Sadie telegraph her mother she is married and I will arrive tomorrow to congratulate

"That ends my responsibility." said Miss Colburn, with a sigh of relief. Dean Eddie, while vexed over the mar-riage of Miss Henderson just a month be-fore her graduation, said that she was a splendid girl of fine family. Mr. Henderbeing one of the leading business men

Rummell Prominent Young Man.

A dispatch to The Tribune from Boise last night said: "Clyde Rummell is an employee of the Boise Statesman, being the mailing clerk. He left Boise about a week ago for a vacation, it being the understanding that he would return in a short time. He did not say where he was worn, but it is understood be was atsnort time. He did not say where he was going, but it is understood he was at-tracted to Salt Lake by a young lady with whom he has corresponded ever since she left Boise. Rummell is about I years of age. His father and other rela-tives live here."

Who the Bride Is.

Miss Sadie Henderson was born and raised in Elko, Nev., and is a most highly esteemed young lady. She is the only daughter of L. O. Henderson, vice-president of the Henderson Banking company of Elko and one of the most prominent men in Nevada. Mr. Henderson, with his family, spent last summer in Boise, where Miss Sadie met Clyde Rummell. The young man is highly respected by the parents of the young lady. No Opposition to Marriage.

They were not opposed to the marriage, but express regret that she did not walt until she had graduated and come home to be married. News of the marriage, according to advices from Elko to The Tribune, was a complete surprise, as it was not known that feelings of more than friendship existed between them Will Be Given Warm Welcome.

C. B. Henderson, nucle of the bride, left Elke for Salt Lake last night on No. 6. He will return there with the bride and groom, and they will be given a big reception at the home of the bride's Ask Parents' Foregiveness.

The bride and groom in a jointly signed message, telegraphed Mrs. Henderson upon their return at midnight to the hotel, where Miss Colburn had left a copy of the last message from Mr. Henderson The message read: "We were married this afternoon and we hope for your forgiveness."

Your forgiveness. Mr. and Mrs. Rummell said that they had arranged to defer the marriage until after the bride's graduation in June, but as the discipline of Rowland Hall prevented them the enjoyment of each other's society, they concluded to hasten matters, and through a mutual friend the elopement was planned.

Mr. Rummell is 22 years of age. His bride passed her isth birthday a month ago. She is handsome in face and form and charming in manner.

Slaver of Two Street Car Men Sends Letter Regarding His Relatives.

James M. Shockly, the slayer of two street car men, who is awaiting his secand trial for murder at the State's prison. has written as follows to a member of The Tribune staff:

Inclosed you will find a clipping from the Republican, edited in Ovage county, Missouri. The same, as you will see, is concerning my being granted a new trial.

You will no doubt remember a letter written to Chief of Police Lynch several months by one Dr. John Seba, in which he stated bat I belonged to a notorious family of criminals. I can't say what the dector's motive was for writing such, but you will notice hat there is a difference in Seba's statement and that of the Republican. The clipping to which the reference is made in the letter first mentions the granting of the new trial and adds: "Young Shockly comes from an excellent family in Maries county, and for the sake of his old father and mother and devoted sisters, it is hoped by many that the unfortunite young man may not be compelled to pay the death penalty for his crime. Shockly was to have been executed last June, but an appeal being taken to the Supreme court, a stay of execution was granted.

"We are informed that under the law of Utah a condemned man may select the mode of his execution—either by shooting or hanging—and that Shockly selected the former."

SETTLEMENT IS NEAR AT LAST

Schettler Case Draws to a Close.

Agreement Is Signed by Representatives of the Family.

It Has Been Approved by Referee Baldwin and Presented to Judge Marshall.

At last it seems that a settlement is to be effected in the Schettler case in so far as the Brigham street property is concerned. The agreement which was drawn up several days ago, and approved by a majority of the Schettler creditors, was yesterday signed by representatives of the Schettler family, approved by Referce Baldwin and presented to Judge Marshall of the Federal court for his approval.

Messrs. Rawlins & Ray, attorneys for the Schettlers, and Stewart & Stewart, attorneys for the creditors, are to appear before Judge Marshall at 9:30 o'clock this morning, when it is thought the petition presented yesterday will be approved.

What Agreement Proposed.

It will be recalled that the agreement proposed, and which has been finally accepted by the representatives of Mrs. Mary Morgan Schettler, called for the transfer of the Brigham street home to the assets of the bank, in return for which the creditors were to pay Mrs. Schettler $2500 in cash, assume the taxes for the year 1904, amounting to between $500 and $700, and deed her a home on Seventh street, valued at $2500. The delay in the proceedings has been caused by the representatives of Mrs. Schettler, who refused to accept some of the terms of the agreement, but they yesterday signed them just as made out some two weeks ago.

Creditors Agitated. What Agreement Proposed.

Creditors Agitated.

Creditors Agitated.

Some of the Schettler creditors have been much agitated of late over a story circulated by one or two of the creditors that Mrs. Mary Morgan Schettler is not the legal wife of B. H. Schettler, that an hour before he married Mary Morgan, he married Martha Wallace, a daughter of the late Gebrge B. Wallace of Taylors-ville, that Martha Wallace Schettler lived with Schettler but one year, when she left him, and was now making her home in Davis county. The creditors claimed that if Martha Wallace was the legal wife of Schettler, he had been guilty of perjury, having testified that he had no other wife when he married Mary Morgan, and some of them are so bitter toward the man that they would leave no stone unturned to have him punished.

Brother of Martha Wallace Talks.

Brother of Martha Wallace Talks. Brother of Martha Wallace Talks.

After some difficulty, a brother of Martha Wallace Schettler, as she was known to a few of the creditors, was found. He was reductant at first to speak of the matter at all, in fact, stated flatly that he had no information to give out. Later, however, he said that his sister, Martha Wallace, had married Schettler, but Mary Morgan Schettler was at one time his legal wife. Martha Wallace Schettler lived with Schettler only about a year, when she obtained a divorce. Her remains are burled in the City cemetery. As the case turns out, it could have no pessible bearing upon the property rights of the Schettler wives.

dent body of the college students. At yesterday's meeting a committee was appointed to draft a constitution and bylaws, which will be submitted at a meeting called for Thursday next. At this time officers will also be elected and a permanent organization perfected.

Coach Maddock yesterday received a letter from the athletic officials of Colorado college, notifying him that they had decided to call off the meet which had been scheduled for the latter part of this month. Two reasons were given as justifications for this action. During the week on the Saturday of which the meet was to have been held league baseball will be played in Colorado Springs every day. This would necessarily act as a strong counter attraction, and in the opinion of the Coloradoans make the meet a failure from the financial standpoint. Another reason given is the fact that the athletes so neglected their studies to get in form for the Colorado State meet that they would have to drop their classes if strenuous training were again resumed.

The athletes at the University were very much disappointed at the news. For weeks they have been looking forward to this contest, and training with the hope of defeating Colorado Springs and thereby winning the championship of Colorado. Next Friday evening the members of Dr. Paden Delivered Address.

Rev. William M. Paden conducted the services, reading first from the pealing. "The Lord is My Shepherd." The quartette of the First Presbyterian church sang "Lead Kindly Light." Following this, Rev. Mr. Paden gave a brief address touching upon the departed young man. The speaker said that as he died in the Maytime of the year, surrounded by the flowers of May, so his life had been cut off in its Maxtime.

"Not until humanity sees the blossoms of the fields and gardens cut down by the winds do we realize that like them we, too, are but mortal. But over us all is the love of God, which is everlasting. As we love in our way, so God loves, but of much greater strength and enduring. So we can feel more content in giving up our loved ones to know that the Father will watch over them with more than a father's care."
